

Teko Katu Marketing Network

Technical sheet:

Name: Teko Katu Marketing Network

Year of establishment: 2020

Number of members: 373 families

Value chain: Diversified agricultural-livestock production

Location of the producer organization: San Ignacio, Misiones – Jasy

Cañy, Canindeyú – Lima, San Pedro – Tava’i, Caazapá

Supporting Social Center: CEPAG

Website: <https://tekokatu.com/nosotros/>

Contact: +595 983 581585 (WhatsApp)

5-10 ha/producer

Territorial extension

13.800 US$

Annual revenue

Our products

The Teko Katu Network offers a wide range of 90 products and varieties, including vegetables, greens, cheese, a variety of seasonal jams and sweets, among others.

A great project behind this product

Our organization is an innovative and transformative initiative because:

- It works with peasant producers from all over the country.
- It has an educational, organizational, and commercial proposal at both local and network levels.
- It promotes the resilience of agricultural systems in the face of climate change.
- It fosters biodiversity and the conservation of natural ecosystems.

“It contributes to environmental protection, promotes agroecology, and facilitates network marketing. This initiative represents an economic alternative by providing an outlet for the products of family farming. The principles of the Comparte Network are reflected in our work, as we exclusively collaborate with organizations formed by women, promote the development of capacities in these organizations to achieve autonomy, foster practices that protect the environment, and share knowledge about biculturalism and traditional practices of soil management and seed conservation.

The Comparte network contributes to the training of technicians and producers. The Participatory Guarantee System (SPG) proposed by Comparte covers productive aspects, diagnostics, and improvement systems, giving us the opportunity to be part of a broader national network.”

